

THE PLAIN DEALER

May 27, 2005
ARTS & LIFE

Makes sense to me: Bruce Willis was talking about his days testing with Cybill Shepherd to see if their pairing on “Moonlighting” would work. Obviously, it did. The show ran for years. Though they’re hardly buddies now, back then they did some heavy-duty flirting. Especially on Willis’ part. “I was flirting with Cybill in a big way, and she was going, ‘OK,’” Willis said in a DVD release of the venerable ’80s show that made him a star. And how does Willis define “OK?” “She wasn’t slapping me, so that is always a good sign.”